Mortal Sin Prevents a Person

From Worthily Receiving Holy Communion at Mass

If you do receive, you are committing another grave sin of sacrilege, which may be mortal. If you are uncertain you must go to confession before you receive. The article below is a relatively good understanding of classifying sins as mortal and venial.

I have made edits (bold face type) and crossed out a few words or lines.

Fr. Joe

What are the Common Examples of Mortal Sins?

<https://laycistercians.com/what-are-examples-mortal-sins/> Published July 27, 2023

As Catholics, we grow up in the knowledge that committing a sin takes us farther away from God. But in the Catholic tradition, sins can be classified into two types: venial sins and mortal sins. In this post, we'll talk about the latter.

What is a Mortal Sin?

In a nutshell, a mortal sin is an act of serious offense that cuts us off from God's sanctifying grace. Mortal sins, in short, are the gravest of sins and represent a deliberate turning away from God and His commandments. You see, all of us are born with the original sin. In baptism, we receive God's sanctifying grace. This not only washes away the original sin but also makes us part of the body of Christ. This grace enables us to live with God and receive his other graces.

But when we commit a mortal sin, it deprives us of God's sanctifying grace. Meaning, we cease to become part of the body of Christ. Remember that Jesus Christ died for our sins. That's why committing a grave sin is like taking his sacrifice for granted. It also causes us to lose charity in our hearts and robs us of eternal life with Christ (Romans 6:23).

Mortal Sin vs. Venial Sin

As mentioned, mortal and venial sins are two types of sins in the Catholic faith. Mortal sin is considered a more serious offense than venial sin because it cuts off your relationship with God and must be resolved through confession. While venial sins are ~~minor~~ offenses that can be atoned for without confession. For instance, breaking a commandment out of ignorance or weakness is considered a venial sin. While deliberately disobeying the will of God through malice or pride is considered a mortal sin. Both sins can cause spiritual harm and must be repented, but only mortal sins require confession in order to absolve them.

A PHYSICAL CONNECTION

A reflection for August 18, The Twentieth Sunday in Ordinary Time

Some 50 years ago, if we wanted to stay in contact with relatives or friends who lived at a distance, we could visit them, invite them to our home, or meet them at a particular location. We could call them on our corded phone, conscious that the further the distance, the more expensive the call. We could write them letters or mail them cards. We might also send them a gift, aware that it would take a few weeks for the package to arrive. Today all that has changed. We can easily remain in contact with people no matter the miles between us. We can call them on our cell phones or send them text messages, photos, or videos. We can contact them by email or stay in touch through Facebook, Instagram, and other social media and communication platforms. We can have gifts delivered to them the next day. We can still send them a letter or a greeting card. And we can visit them. It is curious that despite all the ways we can stay in touch, people today seem to be lonelier, more disconnected, and isolated. Perhaps that is because personal interaction has increasingly been replaced by digital and virtual communication. In fact, many young people are so accustomed to looking at a screen, they find it uncomfortable to look into the eyes of the person next to them. However, the God who made man and woman in his image and likeness decided to connect with his creatures in very physical ways. God made himself known to them in the beauty of creation. God spoke to them through the mouths of his prophets. God wrote about himself in the inspired words found in the scriptures. And amazingly God visited them when the Son of God took on flesh and blood and walked this earth. In Jesus Christ, God sat across from his people and looked them in the eye. That personal, physical way that God visited his people is something that continues today. Just as no virtual or digital connection can equal a personal visit with an individual to whom we have given our heart, we might say the same is true for God. God not only wants a spiritual connection with us—God also wants an actual, physical encounter with you and me. That happens each time we receive Holy Communion at Mass. As Jesus tells us in this Sunday's Gospel (John 6:51-58), "For my flesh is true food, and my blood is true drink. Whoever eats my flesh and drinks my blood remains in me and I in him." Each time we receive the Body and Blood of Christ, the Lord pays us a visit!

Matthew: The King and His Kingdom shows how Jesus fulfills God's promises to Israel and establishes his kingdom on earth. Through references to the Old Testament promises of God to his people and the messages God sent them through the prophets, Matthew provides the key to understanding the rest of the New Testament and Christ as the fulfillment of God's plan.

Jeff Cavins explains how Jesus is challenging and empowering us to achieve a new level of holiness and how, to live it, we must be thoroughly immersed in the kingdom of heaven on earth, the Church.

Once you start learning, he makes you hunger for more. Jeff pulls everything you need to know out of the Bible, and it all starts to make sense like it never did before.
