VOLUNTEERS WANTED

A reflection for July 21, The Sixteenth Sunday in Ordinary Time

The Knights of Columbus, the Local Ambulance Squad, the Red Cross, Parish Ministries and Societies, and other charitable and civic organizations find it increasingly difficult to recruit volunteers. People seem less willing to offer their time and talent.

It is even more difficult for such organizations to find people willing to assume leadership positions. People hesitate because these roles require a greater commitment of time, energy, and effort. But perhaps a greater drawback is the knowledge that once a person becomes a leader, that individual becomes a target for complaints, criticism, protests, gossip, and sometimes even violence. That hesitancy to assume a leadership role is true even in the Church. It is said that 30% of priests who are asked to become a bishop refuse, and some priests decline to become a pastor.

Sunday's scripture readings might be seen as supporting such a refusal to accept a role of leadership. In our First Reading, the leaders of God's people are criticized for being unworthy shepherds. "Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel, against the shepherds who shepherd my people: You have scattered my sheep and driven them away. You have not cared for them, but I will take care to punish your evil deeds."

Certainly, we are aware that some bishops and pastors have been unworthy shepherds. They have failed to protect the members of their flock, not taken proper care of the treasure entrusted to them or been sources of division and scandal. Such failures might make any man hesitate to step into a role where he might be tainted by what others have done in the past.

In our Gospel, we read how the demands that the people made on Jesus and his apostles never stopped. It was difficult for them to even have an opportunity to eat. The same is true today. The expectations people have for their priests remain the same, but the number of the ordained continues to decrease: the "sheep" keep coming to a diminishing number of "shepherds."

At a time when people are increasingly hesitant to give of their time and talent and are reluctant to become leaders, whether in the secular or religious world, we need to encourage, support, and pray for those who do step forward to serve. We also might frequently show them our gratitude and less frequently express our criticism.

We also need to realize that there is only one leader, only one Good Shepherd who never disappoints and who is there when we call.

Stained Glass Window Restoration Project at Sacred Heart Church

Some of our beautiful stained-glass windows at Sacred Heart Church are in serious need of repair. The steel frames are rusting, the ventilators inoperable, and in some places have become deformed causing the delicate stained glass to break. We have decided to repair the most critical windows this year and will attend to the rest of the windows in the future, perhaps a few each year.

On Monday, July 22nd, we will begin Phase 1 of the project to repair and restore the stained-glass windows behind the Altar (both the large Nativity Window and the two side-lite windows) and the large window behind the choir loft. The windows will be removed and taken back to the studio to be cleaned and restored. The window openings will be boarded up until the repaired windows are finished. When reinstalled, the exterior wood frames will be repaired or replaced and new, properly ventilated outer protective coverings will be installed. The cost of this project is $77,363.

We will all miss our beautiful windows while they are gone and look forward to their return in early September.

And when we finally open our hearts and ears to hear His message will we be willing to give up the earthly desires of the flesh and the false promises of the world to attain life?
