Who are the Augustinians, Pope Leo XIV's order?

BY MARIA WIERING . OSV News

In Pope Leo XIV's first greeting after being introduced as pope May 8, he described himself as a "son of St. Augustine."

The first American pope has spoken in the past with affection about the fifth-century convert, bishop and intellectual powerhouse considered the father of his religious order, the Order of St. Augustine. Although their order was founded more than 800 years after Augustine's death, the Augustinians draw on his wisdom and holiness to shape their community.

In the early 13th century, loosely organized communities of hermits living in Italy's Tuscany region sought direction from Pope Innocent IV – known to be an excellent canonist, or Church law scholar – to help them adopt a common rule of life to live with greater uniformity.

They were inspired, in part, by the recent formation of other new religious orders, including the Franciscans in 1209 and the Order of Preachers, also known as the Dominicans, in 1216. Both were mendicant orders, which meant they relied on begging and working for their sustenance, and unlike the long-established Benedictines and other monks, they did not vow stability, meaning they were not bound to a single monastery for life.

Pope Innocent advised the Tuscan hermits to organize under the rule of St. Augustine, a guide for religious life the saint had developed around the year 400. It covered the breadth of religious life, including purpose and basis of common life, prayer, moderation and self-denial, safeguarding chastity and fraternal correction, and governance and obedience.

RULE OF ST. AUGUSTINE

Written initially as a letter for a community of religious women in Hippo, the diocese in modern-day Algeria that St. Augustine led, the rule made its way to Europe and influenced St. Benedict, who formed the Benedictines in Italy in 529.

The rule of St. Augustine had also informed the Dominicans, but when the Tuscan hermits adopted the rule, they also took the name and spiritual fatherhood of its author. Over time, they transitioned from an eremitical way of life to the mendicant model expressed by other medieval orders, which is why they are known as "friars." Women's religious communities also joined the Augustinians, producing saints including St. Clare of Montefalco and St. Rita of Cascia. Male Augustinian saints include St. John of Sahagún, an early Augustinian from Spain, and St. Nicholas of Tolentine, who was the first Augustinian to be canonized after the order's "grand union" in 1256.

Today the Order of St. Augustine is an international religious community that includes more than 2,800 members in nearly 50 countries, including the United States, where they are organized into three provinces, or geographical areas. Lay men and women also affiliate themselves with the Augustinians and the order's spirituality and support the order's work. (Continued on next page...)

(... Continued) Augustinians in the U.S. have a strong reputation for education and founded Villanova University near Philadelphia and Merrimack College in North Andover, Massachusetts, and high schools in California, Illinois, Massachusetts, Michigan, Oklahoma, Ontario and Pennsylvania. They also care for several parishes and have missions in Japan and Peru. Contemporary Augustinians describe themselves as “active contemplatives” with varied ministries who are “called to restlessness” – a nod to St. Augustine’s famous description of himself in his influential autobiography, “Confessions”: “You have made us for yourself, O Lord, and our hearts are restless until they rest in You.” The U.S. Augustinians’ vocations website describes this restlessness as “a divine gift” that they “believe ... can direct us to God.”

A POPE OF FIRSTS

Despite the order’s 800-year history – and its Italian origins – Pope Leo XIV is the first Augustinian to be named a pope. A Chicago native, Pope Leo attended an Augustinian high school seminary, since closed, near Holland, Michigan, and then Villanova University, where he majored in math, before entering the Augustinian novitiate in St. Louis in 1977. He professed first vows in 1978 and final vows in 1981. He was ordained a priest the following year.

His ministries as a young priest included missionary work in Peru and seminary formation before he became provincial of his order’s Chicago-based Midwest province, Our Mother of Good Counsel, and then his order’s worldwide leader, a role he held for two, six-year terms.

Augustinians worldwide met the news of an Augustinian bishop with joy. The head of the Midwestern Augustinian province, Prior Provincial Father Anthony B. Pizzo, said May 8 that the community celebrated the news of Pope Leo’s election and it was “honored that he is one of our own, a brother formed in the restless heart of the Augustinian Order.” “We see him as a bridge-builder, rooted in the spirit of St. Augustine, walking forward with the whole Church as a companion on the journey,” he said. After identifying himself as an Augustinian on St. Peter’s loggia May 8, Pope Leo quoted St. Augustine: “For you I am a bishop, with you, I am a Christian.” “In this sense we can all walk together toward that homeland that God has prepared,” he said.

Pope Leo’s motto, coat of arms pay homage to St. Augustine

BY CATHOLIC NEWS SERVICE

VATICAN CITY • Pope Leo XIV’s devotion to St. Augustine, his life and ministry as a member of the Augustinian order and his focus on the unity of the Church are reflected in his episcopal motto and coat of arms.

When he appeared on the balcony of St. Peter’s Basilica shortly after his election May 8, he introduced himself as “an Augustinian, a son of St. Augustine.”

And he explained that the cardinals who elected him “have chosen me to be the Successor of Peter and to walk together with you as a Church, united, ever pursuing peace and justice, ever seeking to act as men and women faithful to Jesus Christ, in order to proclaim the Gospel without fear, to be missionaries.”

His episcopal motto is, “In Illo uno unum,” or literally “In the One, we are one.”

Vatican News explained that the phrase is taken from St. Augustine’s “Exposition on Psalm 127,” where he explains that “although we Christians are many, in the one Christ we are one.”

As a cardinal, he told Vatican News in 2023, “As can be seen from my episcopal motto, unity and communion are truly part of the charism of the Order of St. Augustine, and also of my way of acting and thinking.”

“I believe it is very important to promote communion in the Church, and we know well that communion, participation and mission are the three keywords of the Synod” of Bishops on synodality, he said. “So, as an Augustinian, for me promoting unity and communion is fundamental.”

His shield, now topped by a miter instead of the red galero hat on the shield of cardinals, is divided diagonally into two. The upper half features a blue background with a white lily or fleur-de-lis, symbolizing the Virgin Mary, but also his French heritage.

The lower half of the shield has a light background and displays an image common to the religious orders named after and inspired by St. Augustine: a closed book with a heart pierced by an arrow.

Vatican News said, “This is a direct reference to the conversion experience of St. Augustine himself, who described his personal encounter with God’s word using the phrase: ‘Vulnerasti cor meum verbo tuo’ – ‘You have pierced my heart with your Word.’”

AS I LOVE — A reflection for May 18

Love one another as I have loved you. We hear that command of Jesus in this Sunday's Gospel (John 13:31-33a, 34-35). We can simply hear these words, which Jesus addressed to his disciples at the Last Supper, as simply another command from the Lord to love others.

But if we consider what Jesus said, we realize that he is commanding us to love others in a particular way: we are to love others just as Jesus loved us. This begins with our appreciating the way in which Jesus loves us.

We are loved in an individual, personal way. In the waters of baptism, Jesus chose each of us to be part of his family of faith. He knows our names and allows us to call him our brother and friend. Jesus recognizes our voices when we turn to him in prayer, and he speaks to us when the scriptures are proclaimed. Jesus trusts us so much that he places himself into our hands when we step forward to receive the eucharist.

Jesus washes us from our sins and failings as assuredly as he washed the feet of his apostles. He walks with us on our journey of life just as he walked with the two disciples on the road to Emmaus. Jesus supports and encourages us through his Church. He reveals the meaning and purpose of our lives. And above all, Jesus suffers and dies so that we might be raised with him to a life of everlasting joy.

That is the way Jesus loves us and the way he tells us that we are to love one another – just as he does!

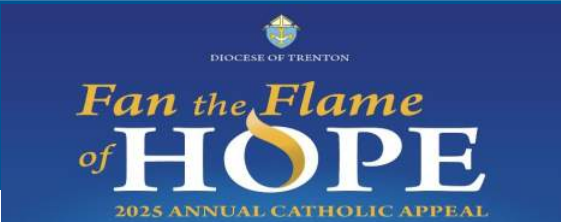

It is interesting to consider that when Jesus gave that new commandment, he was not speaking to a crowd of people—he was speaking directly to his disciples and telling them how they were to love each other.

And that is how Jesus is telling us to love our fellow Christians today! Such an all embracing, compassionate, trusting, sacrificial love can be a challenge in a Church where Christians are often divided by political preferences, liturgical practices, social views, immigration policies, judicial decisions, unspoken racial prejudices, economic status, educational levels, parish politics, and all the other things that separate people from one another in our polarized society.

What a powerful witness we would give to the world if despite the many things that divide us, all Christians truly loved one another just as Jesus loves us!

“This is how all will know that you are my disciples, if you have love for one another.”

Bishop and Diocese's faithful give thanks for election of Pope Leo XIV

UPDATED May 12, 2025

By MARY STADNYK, Associate Editor, trentonmonitor.com

"We have a pope!"

Those were the simple, but exuberant words that Bishop David M. O'Connell, C.M., proclaimed at the start of a diocesan Mass of Thanksgiving celebrated May 10 in St. Gregory the Great Church, Hamilton Square. His words were met with a resounding round of applause from the congregation.

"All of us throughout the Diocese of Trenton are joyful in a special way as we celebrate the election of Pope Leo XIV as our Holy Father. All of us pray for him. We pray for his good health and we pray for his success as he leads us in the Church," the Bishop said.

It was just two days after Cardinal Robert Prevost was elected to the papacy and became Pope Leo XIV that Bishop O'Connell gathered with members of the diocesan family to commemorate the historic new chapter in the life of the Church and pray for the intentions of the successor of St. Peter. The Bishop served as principal celebrant and homilist, joined around the altar by several priests, including Msgr. Thomas Gervasio, vicar general, and Father Michael Hall, host pastor. The Mass was livestreamed across several diocesan digital sites.

Noting how appropriate it was to hold the Mass of Thanksgiving on Good Shepherd Sunday, Bishop O'Connell, in his homily, said, "We rejoice in the image of Christ as the Good Shepherd, guiding his flock with love, wisdom and unwavering care. Today, our joy is magnified as we celebrate the election of our new American born Holy Father, Pope Leo XIV, chosen to be shepherd the Church in the footsteps of Christ."

Dovetailing the Gospel passage from John 10:27, "My sheep hear my voice; I know them and they follow me," with the significance of a papal election, Bishop O'Connell described it as a "profound moment in the life of the Church – a moment when the voice of the Holy Spirit speaks through the College of Cardinals, calling forth a successor to St. Peter.

"It is a moment of renewal, of hope, and of trust in God's divine plan," he said.

"Like the Good Shepherd, the pope is called to lead not with power alone, but with service; not with authority alone but with humility and love," Bishop O'Connell continued. "Pope Leo XIV has been entrusted with the keys of the kingdom first given to St. Peter, the care of Christ's flock, to guide us in faith, to strengthen us in unity, and to inspire us in holiness.

"His mission is not just his own," Bishop O'Connell said. "It is the mission of Christ, carried forward through the ages in the Church."

The Holy Father was frequently remembered throughout the Mass – in the Prayers of the Faithful as well in the special intention prayed by Bishop O'Connell. "Tender and loving God, eternal shepherd of our flock, we ask you to hear our prayers, to listen to our voice, to be close to us as we give you thanks and praise that you had sent your son, Jesus, to be our Good Shepherd, and he in turn has called Leo XIV to be a shepherd with him and for us. Help us to follow the Lord to the glory of the Kingdom. We ask this through Christ our Lord, amen."

Bishop O'Connell celebrates the a Mass of Thanksgiving for the election of Pope Leo XIV in St. Gregory the Great Church, Hamilton Square, May 10. With the Bishop are Deacon Joe Latini, left; Msgr. Thomas N. Gervasio, diocesan vicar general, and Father Michael Hall, parish pastor. Mike Ehrmann photo

Spiritual Adoption

Please spiritually adopt an unborn baby. Every day over 4,000 babies are killed by abortion. They have so little protection only the hand of God can end this massacre. Prayer is the best weapon to help them - the most effective.

Say this prayer every day for 9 months to save a baby's life!

Jesus, Mary and Joseph, I love you very much. I beg you to spare the life of the unborn baby that I have spiritually adopted who is in danger of abortion.

Prayer of Archbishop Fulton J Sheen

"Before I formed you in the womb, I knew you." (Jeremiah 1:5)

GOD OF LOVE AND LIFE

FATHER, SON and HOLY SPIRIT

"Whoever loves me will keep my word and my Father will love him, and we will come to him and make our dwelling with him." John 20:29

These are strong words given to us just before Jesus' Ascension. Jesus was giving direction to our lives and hope to our souls.

The depth to which we believe and follow His words determines our future. For those that do not love Him do not keep His words and by inference the Father and the Son will not dwell in them. Show your love by keeping His commandment to love one another, especially the preborn.

Do you know that the Church teaches "You shall not kill the embryo by abortion".

Be Catholic, Love God, Love Life
