Why Do We Offer Masses for the Dead?

Excerpts by John Grondelsky for Catholic Answers

Catholics are known to give bereaved people “Mass cards”—cards that say Mass will be celebrated at a certain place and time for a deceased person. This is something uniquely Catholic; one of the core tenets of the Protestant Reformation was to reject the efficacy of prayer for the dead.

As Catholics, we believe that a person’s permanent spiritual identity is established at death. A person makes himself into a certain kind of person morally—good or bad—throughout his lifetime. Death—the separation of body and soul—means that a person’s time for changing his moral identity is over. What he has become, he is . . . forever. That is why we Catholics speak of death, followed by judgment, ending in heaven or hell. Or purgatory.

Purgatory is another Catholic teaching the Protestant Reformation rejected. It is, however, a reality that corresponds to human life and experience. Mortal sin that destroys the life of God in our souls because it is so radically opposed to charity, love—is truly deserving of the word sin. But we also know there are many sins that people commit that do not completely break their relationship with God, because the matter itself is not grave, they did not truly commit themselves to it, and/or their freedom was in some way impaired (perhaps, for example, by addictions). The things they did were wrong. God is perfect; therefore, nothing that is tainted by sin even slightly can be in his presence.

Purgatory is a way for persons who die in the state of grace (i.e., not stained by mortal sin) but also still not yet perfect in charity to become perfect. Purgatory purifies the soul of those venial sins that impede the soul’s perfect ascent to God. Death ends a person’s ability to change morally, because body and soul—the integral person—are broken apart. The soul is, therefore, passive vis-à-vis himself. He can do nothing for himself (though, from love, he can do for others, which is why we can invoke the prayers of the faithful departed). As long as supernatural charity is present, we can always help others.

As Catholics, we affirm the “communion of saints, that those in this world, in purgatory, and in heaven remain connected by bonds of charity (Catechism of the Catholic Church, 958). That is why, even already in the Old Testament, the biblical writer could tell us, “It is a holy and wholesome thought to pray for the dead” (2 Macc. 12:46). We, who are alive, can do acts of charity for our faithful departed in purgatory they cannot do for themselves. Our charity can be extended to them to help atone for their sins.

If we are looking for prayer to atone for sins, there can be no more perfect, no more absolute, no more complete prayer than Christ’s sacrifice, which is made present in the sacrifice of the Mass. When the priest offers Mass for a particular intention, be it for someone living or dead, Jesus’ perfect prayer of obedience is offered to God specifically out of our love for that particular person. We can offer our own prayers, individual acts of self-denial, or almsgiving on their behalf, but there is no more efficacious prayer, no more efficacious act than Jesus’ own sacrifice (CCC 1032, 1055). After all, we can’t save ourselves, but God enables the “widow’s mite” of our good deeds done in grace and charity to contribute. But Jesus’ sacrifice (which makes our charity possible) is a qualitatively and wholly other reality. That is why Catholics bid their loved one’s farewell with a funeral Mass soon after death (CCC 1689) and why they regularly arrange for Mass to be celebrated for their loved ones, especially on the anniversary of their death. We believe that, through Christ, we remain joined to those who have “gone before us, marked with the sign of faith,” and that there is no better way for us to reach the home of our Father than through the re-presentation of Jesus’ sacrifice in the Mass.

Often, especially in non-Catholic funerals or movies and television shows that include funerals, the emphasis is on the deceased’s life: what he did, what he achieved, what a great person, spouse, parent, etc. he was. Often, there is a eulogy that concentrates on those points. That approach seems to get it backwards. It seems really not to believe in life after death, or else it assumes that “all dogs [and people] go to heaven.” As Catholics, we are hopefully more realistic: people often die with some moral warts (something that, pressed hard enough, the eulogizing might admit). So, instead of focusing on what was, what can’t be changed anyway, Catholics want to focus on what is: a brother who needs our prayers as he stands before a merciful but also just God. St. Ambrose summed it up: “We have loved them during life; let us not abandon them in death, until we have conducted them by our prayers into the house of the Lord.” And there is no more efficacious way to do that than through the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass.

FAMILIES NEEDED

Did you know there are close to 500,000 children in the United States of America in the foster care system whose parents have lost all legal rights to them? They live every day, dreaming of having what other kids have, a forever family, a permanent school, and a house to call home. Sadly, most of them age out of the system and become a statistic, because not enough families consider adoption. What better way to make a difference in the world than to adopt a homeless child? If there is room in your heart, there is room in your home. Downey Side is a non-profit that allows us to make adoption affordable. To learn more, contact Dawn Rusinko at 732-359-8434 or drusinko@downeyside.org

AED's and where to find them!

An AED, or Automated External Defibrillator, is used to help those experiencing sudden cardiac arrest. It's a sophisticated, yet easy-to-use, medical device that can analyze the heart's rhythm and, if necessary, deliver an electrical shock, or defibrillation, to help the heart re-establish an effective rhythm. Our parish has 2 AED units. One in our main Church (on the back wall [parking lot side] just before St. Pio's Prayer Room) and one in the Parish Hall (on the back wall, street side). Please familiarize yourself with where these are so they can be retrieved in an emergency.

GOD OF LOVE AND LIFE FATHER, SON and HOLY SPIRIT

OCTOBER IS RESPECT LIFE MONTH

"Whoever would love life and see good days ... must turn from evil and do good. For the eyes of the Lord are on the righteous and his ears turned to their prayers, but the face of the Lord is against evil doers." 1 Peter 3:10-12

We are constantly wrestling with good and evil in our daily lives. While we are a year from the 2024 elections, the political climate is already heating. In every election you have the choice to vote for good over evil.

Abortion, assisted suicide, child mutilation and human trafficking are evil. While we pray for those who commit evil to repent and to save their souls we certainly should not vote for them. Choose carefully and vote for life and life candidates in every election!

Embrace Good Abhor Evil! Be Pro-life, Vote Pro-life

The parish office will be closed Wednesday, November 1st in celebration of All Saints Day, a Holy Day of Obligation. Masses are 9:30am and 5:00pm, Wednesday, both in the main Church.

ALL SOULS DAY

A special Mass will be celebrated Thursday, November 2 at 5pm in the main Church for all the souls in Purgatory and especially for our loved ones who died this past year. All are welcome to attend. Please join us as we light a candle for those who have gone to rest in the hands of our Lord.
