Pope Francis: “Look to Jesus always.”

“Christ is with us and walking beside us in our daily journey through life, including our struggles to be holy,” Pope Francis said Sunday.

Emphasizing that Jesus is not just a historical figure, the pope said Aug. 27 that “we are not alone on the path of life, because Christ is with us and Christ helps us to walk, as he did with Peter and the other disciples. Let us not be discouraged if at times the summit of the Christian life seems too high and the path too steep,” he said. “Let us look to Jesus — look to Jesus always — look to Jesus who walks beside us, who welcomes our frailties, shares our efforts and rests his firm and gentle arm on our weak shoulders. With Him close at hand, let us also reach out to one another and renew our trust: with Jesus, what seems impossible on our own, with Jesus we can go forward.”

Pope Francis spoke about the presence of Christ during his weekly Sunday address and Angelus prayer, which he delivered from a window overlooking St. Peter’s Square to a crowd of about 10,000 people.

“Christ, brothers and sisters, is not a memory of the past,” the pope emphasized, “but the God of the present. If He were merely a historic figure, to imitate Him today would be impossible: We would find ourselves faced with the great chasm of time, and above all, faced with His model, which is like a very high, un-scalable mountain; we would want to climb it, but lack the ability and the necessary means. Instead, Jesus is alive. Remember this: Jesus is alive, Jesus lives in the Church, lives in the world. Jesus accompanies us, He is at our side, He offers us His Word and His grace, which enlighten and refresh us on the journey: He, an expert and wise guide, is happy to accompany us on the most difficult paths and the most inaccessible slopes,” he said.

Pope Francis reflected on the question Jesus asked His disciples in the day’s Gospel reading: “Who do people say that the Son of Man is?”

“In general, [people] say good things,” the pope noted. “Many see [Jesus] as a great teacher, as a special person: good, righteous, consistent, courageous... But is this enough to understand who He is, and above all, is it enough for Jesus? It seems not.” “Indeed,” he continued, “if [Jesus] were simply a person from the past — just as the figures cited in the Gospel, John the Baptist, Moses, Elijah, and the great prophets were for the people — He would merely be a good memory of a bygone time.” Francis said this is why Jesus immediately asks his disciples “the decisive question: ‘But who do you — you — say that I am?’”

Jesus does not want to be known as merely a historical figure, He wants to be close to us, the pope emphasized. Christ is “not a character from the past, but the Christ, that is, the Messiah, the one awaited in the present; not a deceased hero, but the Son of the living God, made man and come to share the joys and the labors of our journey.”

Pope Francis encouraged Catholics to ask themselves: “Who is Jesus for me?” Is he “a great figure, a point of reference, an unattainable model? Or God the Son, Who walks by my side, Who can lead me to the peak of holiness, that I cannot reach by myself?” he said. The pope also said to reflect on whether Jesus is truly Lord of our lives, if we entrust ourselves to Him in difficult moments, and if we cultivate His presence through reading His Word and receiving the sacraments.

He concluded by asking the intercession of the Virgin Mary to help us “to feel her Son alive and present beside us.” After praying the Angelus, a traditional Marian prayer, Pope Francis spoke about St. Monica, whose feast day is celebrated by the Church on Aug. 27. “Today we remember St. Monica, mother of St. Augustine. With her prayers, her tears, she asked the Lord for the conversion of her son: A strong woman, a good woman. Let us pray for the many mothers who suffer because their children are a little lost or on difficult paths in life,” he said.

Padre Pio Prayer Anthology

Prayer #51: Focus Point: At the end of September, we celebrate the feast of Padre Pio, our patron saint. He is known for his comforting and encouraging motto: pray, hope and don't worry! Like so many of us, he had multiple health concerns accompanied by constant and intense pain. Perhaps that is why he is so frequently portrayed as serious, somber and physically burdened. He served quite actively as a priest for many years. He attracted quite a following, not because of his disabilities, but because of his intense spirituality, enthusiasm, and unbridled passion for nurturing an intimate relationship with God. His genuine desire to share that passion with others through the priesthood directly benefits us all! He spent a sacrificial amount of time in personal prayer, deepening his love for God as well as his personal relationship with God. His hope for the world was based on the comfort he derived from Jesus living within his heart. No wonder the last part of his motto is "don't worry!" We should consider him a superlative role model for coping with life! As Fr Joe says, "Keep praying! Your prayers will have an effect, even though we might not understand how and when. Never give up on God! Continue to pray and you will always be in his graces!"

Prayer for Trust in God Through Prayer:

Dear Lord, please help me to recognize how personal, heartfelt prayer can transform my life and deepen my relationship with You. Could feeling Your love deeply within my heart bring me to a level of comfort, peace and Joy that I have never experienced? Help me to wholeheartedly believe that this can happen to ordinary people. May I trust in Your providence for me and take comfort in the steadfast and passionate love that You have for all of us. Please raise me to a level of trust that I don't worry, and that I feel a true passion for sharing my feelings with others! Amen

Request for Donations from Fr Ashe

In 2018, Americas Gleaned Seafood, (AGS) a New Jersey 501 (c)(3) nonprofit was formed to make fresh, NJ caught, protein-rich seafood available to New Jersey's food banks on a regular, sustainable basis. New Jersey is home to a robust commercial fishing industry. The state's 6 major ports harvest more than 120 million pounds of seafood annually. But a large percentage - up to 25 million pounds - is "bycatch", meaning it is not the fishermen's targeted species or for a variety of reasons, it is not marketable (National Marine Fisheries Service & NOAA, 2013). Per current regulations, this bycatch is discarded overboard, but it is perfectly good and could be donated to help feed people in need. Most fishers would prefer to do so, but there's never been a workable process in place to do so. That is the reason AGS was created.

AGS works with commercial fishers to donate excess seafood and deliver it to local food pantries to help feed low-income families. Since last November, AGS has gleaned and provided 2,186 pounds of seafood, which includes Porgies, Fluke, Blue Seabass, Butterfish, Talapia, Whiting, Monkfish, Squid and Skate to two soup kitchens - St. Vincent DePaul in Lakewood and True Vine Ministry in Bayville. This fish provided 8,744 fresh seafood meals to 2,915 families in the last 9 months.

Americas Gleaned Seafood utilized previous donations to purchase waxed boxes that the gleaned seafood is packaged into in order for it to be distributed to families.

Join us in the fight against hunger! Donate at agsusa.org or send a check to Americas Gleaned Seafood at P.O. Box 94, Lavallette, NJ 08735. Every $15 provides 30 meals!
